

LATIN AMERICAN AND CARIBBEAN STUDIES, UNDERGRADUATE CERTIFICATE

Like a departmental minor, the LACS undergraduate certificate offers a specific academic focus but differs by being interdisciplinary, allowing students to combine related courses in different disciplines to explore common themes. Students who earn a certificate demonstrate their intellectual commitment to a subject and their competence in scholarly areas, which can prove valuable at the graduate level or in the workplace.

Numerous study abroad opportunities are available to students in any of these programs, including short-term and longer-length. Most students start planning their study abroad experience early in sophomore year for trips that take place in junior year. Popular destinations include Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, Argentina, and Chile.

Eligibility

The Certificate in Latin American and Caribbean Studies is open to all students seeking a bachelor's degree from UWM, to those who previously received a bachelor's degree from UWM or any other accredited college or university, and to those who do not plan to pursue a college or university degree (non-degree students) but who have a strong interest in this subject. To be admitted to the University as non-degree students, individuals must meet regular University admission requirements. Students currently involved in baccalaureate studies who successfully complete the requirements of the certificate program are awarded the certificate at the time of graduation. Students who already possess the bachelor's degree and non-degree students receive the certificate upon completion of the program requirements.

Requirements

You are strongly advised to consult both the Latin American and Caribbean Studies advisor and your L&S advisor to ensure you stay on track towards a degree.

Proficiency in a language (other than English) widely spoken in Latin America or the Caribbean is required. Spanish, Portuguese, and French are already approved to satisfy this requirement, and the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies will determine additional languages that satisfy the certificate. This requirement may be fulfilled by either:

1. successful completion (with a grade of C or above) of any upper-level (numbered 300 or above) course in the target language; or
2. successful completion of a language proficiency examination. Exceptions to this requirement must be approved by the LACS Certificate Committee.

Students must complete 18 credits in Latin American and Caribbean content courses, 9 of which must be at the 300 level or above and in residence at UWM. The 18 credits include one required course, LACS 101. Students must select courses from at least three curricular areas, including LACS 101. No more than 9 credits in any one curricular area may be counted towards the certificate program. Students may count up to 3 credits of a related independent study and up to 3 credits of a related internship. In addition to any Latin American content courses taken in a semester-length, UWM-approved study abroad program in Latin America or the Caribbean, an additional three credits for participating also may be counted, if courses are taken within an immersion setting (as determined by the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies). A 2.00 GPA or better must be achieved in all UWM coursework and in all certificate credits.

Courses that meet the certificate requirements include, but are not limited to, those in the following list. For the most current list of Latin American and Caribbean content courses, see the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (<http://uwm.edu/clacs/>).
